ROBERT S. WOLF

Robert S. Wolf is the Chair of Moses & Singer’s White Collar Criminal Defense and Government Investigations, and Securities Litigation practice groups.

His primary areas of practice are white collar criminal defense, securities litigation and government investigations, as well as corporate, commercial and real estate litigation. His vast litigation experience is much broader and includes representing corporations and individuals in all stages of federal and state civil, criminal and bankruptcy proceedings, in addition to regulatory enforcement proceedings and arbitrations. Robert regularly represents clients nationwide in significant securities fraud prosecutions and SEC enforcement actions. He tries cases and argues appeals in federal and state courts throughout the country and handles complex international litigations in connection with global intelligence investigations for numerous European Union member countries and other foreign jurisdictions.

High-profile clients subject to unfavorable press or otherwise targeted by the media look to Robert for his extensive experience in crisis management and a well-earned, media-savvy reputation. These clients include high-net-worth individuals, financial industry professionals, real estate developers and celebrities.

Robert handles employment matters in the financial industry and elsewhere on behalf of both employers and employees. Among other things, he negotiated and obtained substantial severance packages for at-will employees in hostile environments; represented broker-dealers and hedge funds against employees in similar matters; and obtained a landmark ruling regarding the U-5 disclosure immunity defeating substantial monetary damage claims.

Recognized as the first American attorney to be permitted into a Russian prison in an actual case, Robert represented a U.S. citizen charged with fraud and money laundering in connection with one of the first post-criminal prosecutions between the United States and the Russian Federation. He is frequently quoted in various publications, including The New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg News and Reuters, and has appeared often as a legal analyst on television.

Robert is currently representing a former business associate of President Trump, in connection with the ongoing congressional investigation by various house and senate subcommittees, into alleged Russian interference in the 2016 Presidential election.

Robert is rated AV Preeminent™ by Martindale-Hubbell and identifies himself as part of a select group of lawyers recognized for their legal abilities and professional ethical standards.
