TED A. CORLESS

As a large loss insurance lawyer for more than 25 years, Ted Corless routinely racks up record-setting trial verdicts against the largest insurers in the world. These claims arise from every conceivable peril, such as hurricanes, tropical storms, wind storms, sinkholes, and fire. His clients include commercial and industrial owners as well as residential property owners, condo boards, and Licensed Community Association Managers (LCAMs), who engage him and Team CBTG at the time of the loss, or after the delay or denial of their claim by the insurer.

Corless often works as trial counsel and jury consultant to lawyers who lack his experience in handling significant, multiple building losses and high-rise structures located all over the United States. Whether the damages presented are for direct physical loss to the structure or its contents, or economic damage, Team CBTG assists clients in all phases of their claim, through trial verdict and appeals to the highest courts in the land.

Using a comprehensive mix of project management and state-of-the-art augmented and virtual reality technology in the courtroom, Corless is known for lavish preparation at all phases. Corless and Team CBTG demonstrates regular success recovering hundreds of millions in damages working with top experts in civil and geotechnical engineering. Team CBTG is focused on recovering all damages due for all building elements, including the structure, roof, and windows, as well as economic losses associated with the interruption of a client's business caused by a catastrophic property loss.
