LINDA M. CORREIA

Linda M. Correia is a relentless advocate for workers and students who have faced discrimination or retaliation that has interfered with their work or educational opportunities. One of Ms. Correia's colleagues tells the story of a mediator who said, "We don't see settlements for amounts like that here. Maybe you see that on the east coast, but we are in a different world over here." Without skipping a beat, Ms. Correia said, "I'm here to change your world," and she achieved the settlement her clients wanted.

Ms. Correia is recognized nationally as one of the top employment discrimination and Title IX lawyers in the United States. For 30 years, Ms. Correia has achieved outstanding results for her clients who have been targets of sex discrimination, sexual harassment, and retaliation under Title VII, Title IX, and other forms of discrimination under state and federal civil rights statutes. She also counsels workers on executive compensation agreements and in severance negotiations.

A founding member of Correia & Puth, PLLC, in Washington, D.C., Ms. Correia advocates for the rights of employees who oppose discrimination. Through her years of representing educators, coaches, and athletes who have confronted retaliation when they spoke out against discrimination, she understands the challenge of withstanding the attacks of those who don't want the world to change – and who would retaliate.

Ms. Correia currently serves as President of the National Employment Lawyers Association and serves on the Board of Directors of the Public Justice Foundation, the Trial Lawyers Association of Metropolitan Washington, D.C., and is a past president of the Metropolitan Washington Employment Lawyers Association.

VIRGINIA RESTON

G&B is an intellectual property boutique representing clients in the United States and internationally since 1978 in all aspects of patent and trademark law, including prosecution, licensing, due diligence, infringement/validity opinions, portfolio management, post-grant proceedings and litigation. Bruce Bernstein, one of the founders of the firm and a former US Patent Examiner, has a background in Applied Physics, speaks Japanese, and works together with partner Branko Pejic on a variety of licensing issues and complex negotiations. Neil Greenblum, the other founder and also a former Examiner, speaks French and German and has handled a number of litigations alongside Branko Pejic and Jill Browning. Partners Jill Browning, Sean Myers-Payne, Walter Schlapkohl and Paul Braier specialize in advising companies worldwide on sophisticated biotechnology and pharmaceutical matters. Partners Bill Boshnick, Steve Pollicoff and Jay Bonnamy team together to lead the firm's electrical, software and mechanical prosecution group. All of G&B's attorneys are specialists in the field of IP and offer their clients critical thinking and outside the box solutions to the patent and trademark challenges that arise for both established and emerging companies in all areas of technology.
